Message from the City Manager

Dear Cambridge Community,

Last summer, we devoted an entire newsletter to sharing how Cambridge is addressing global climate change. Today, we are devoting this newsletter to the housing crisis that we are confronting.

Rising housing costs have become an ever-present challenge to everyone in our city, from young people building lives in our community, to families seeking more space for children, to seniors trying to stay close to family and friends. In our 2023 resident survey, we asked what is the single most important issue facing our city? 39% of you said affordable housing, a result that has been repeated year after year. And while prices dropped during the pandemic, rents have increased by more than 10% since 2020 and remained among the highest in greater Boston. We have an amazing community, but it's becoming unaffordable, inaccessible, and inequitable.

There is now broad recognition that housing is a crisis. President Biden speaks regularly about the need to address the high cost of housing and to "build, build, build." Governor Healey has stated simply that housing is the number one issue for her administration. Cambridge has been active in supporting these larger efforts. The City Council passed multiple policy orders supporting a local transfer fee option to fund affordable housing and I have testified multiple times at the State House in favor of the Governor's Affordable Homes Act which would provide billions of dollars toward affordable housing and provide key policy changes that would support our local efforts. We cannot solve housing alone and we will continue to work closely with our state delegation to pursue innovative policy solutions.

Cambridge has also been a leader and taken important actions at a city level. The City Council has passed some of the most progressive housing policies in the state, including density bonuses and "as-of-right" zoning for affordable housing developments, eliminating parking minimums, and inclusionary housing requirements for market rate housing. The recent Alewife district re-zoning prioritized housing and will result in not just commercial development, but also up to 3,500 new housing units, including as many as 700 income-restricted affordable units.

We have also made significant financial investments in affordable housing, with the City allocating over $40 million each year to the Affordable Housing Trust. This has tripled over the last five years and represents one of the largest budget priorities in our annual operating budget. The City has also recently taken an inventory of City-owned parcels and begun discussions with the City Council on how they can be used for community benefit, particularly affordable housing. Finally, we have been active in assessing properties on the market and have funded a number of purchases by affordable housing providers with the purpose of building new affordable housing.

This commitment extends well beyond policy, investment and development. Our actions center around people. Those who aspire to make Cambridge their new home and those who are proud to call Cambridge home. Our broader scope of housing-related resources and services includes funding and support for housing stabilization, permanent supportive housing, accessing affordable housing opportunities, and obtaining assistance to prevent eviction and tenant displacement. We also offer a full range of support for residents who are unhoused, City funding to assist eligible residents buying homes on the market, and help for homeowners who are in need of making needed home repairs and improvements.

This issue will provide a broad overview of our key commitments, initiatives, and investments. I'm so proud of all of the incredible efforts that the Council and City staff have accomplished over the years. And yet, despite all of this, prices continue to rise and more must be done – at greater scale and with greater urgency.

As with all of our work, we will move forward together as a community.

Sincerely,
Yi-An Huang
City Manager

Housing Data and Facts

750
UNITS BEING BUILT

Over 750 housing units are being built, with 3,950 more permitted, ensuring ample support for future population growth.

202%
INCREASE

City funding for the Affordable Housing Trust in FY24 ($41.1 million through property taxes, department revenue, Free Cash, and CPA funds) was a 202% increase from the amount of funding provided in FY19. In 2019, a commitment was made to double the amount of funds dedicated to affordable housing within 3-5 years.

FY19

FY25

57,894
TOTAL UNITS

As of June 30, 2023, the Cambridge housing stock included 57,894 units either available for occupancy or under construction.

8,591
AFFORDABLE HOUSING UNITS

As of June 30, 2023, the Cambridge housing stock included 8,591 affordable housing units.

$188.4M

City funding for the Affordable Housing Trust totals $188.4 million from FY19-FY24 inclusive.

It has been the City's practice since FY20 to use 25% of building permit revenue as a revenue source for supporting the Affordable Housing Trust.

$358M

Through FY24, the City has allocated over $358 million to invest in affordable housing initiatives. These funds have resulted in the preservation or creation of 4,000+ affordable units.

Key Areas of Focus

Affordable housing has long been a top priority for Cambridge starting with the City Council.

In support of this, the City commits substantial resources and works diligently to address affordable housing needs in the community. A number of key areas of focus, include:

- Increasing the availability of affordable rental housing opportunities in Cambridge.
- Increasing affordable homeownership opportunities for residents by providing assistance to first-time homebuyers; preserving and increasing Cambridge’s affordable homeownership stock.
- Increasing new housing production – market-rate and affordable.
- Improving access to affordable housing opportunities and eviction prevention services and resources, while increasing housing literacy for residents, providers, and property owners and managers.

Housing Crisis – A Regional View

A crippling regional housing shortage has made it difficult for families and individuals to rent an apartment, let alone own a home, especially for those with low or even moderate incomes. To help address these issues, Cambridge is dedicating more than $60 million from a variety of sources to address affordable housing and homelessness in the fiscal year 2024.

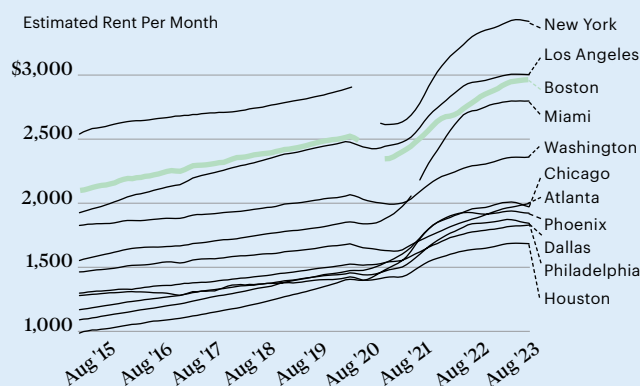

Cost Burden

For the first time in almost two decades, more Greater Boston renter households—51 percent—are cost burdened than not. The majority of Greater Boston renter households making less than $75,000 are cost burdened.

Highest Average Rent

Boston is the third most expensive rental market among the 11 most populous Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) in the nation, behind New York City and just behind Los Angeles.

Affordable Housing Trust Expands and Protects Affordable Housing Opportunities

Created by the City Council, the Cambridge Affordable Housing Trust was established in 1989 with the mission of expanding and protecting affordable housing opportunities in Cambridge. From the end of rent control in the mid-1990s to the real estate boom of the early-2000s to the affordable housing crisis currently challenging our city and the greater Boston region, the Trust has worked to shape housing programs and policies, fund the purchase of residential buildings and development sites for affordable housing developments, and provide funding that preserves and creates affordable housing for low- and moderate-income families in Cambridge.

Chaired by the City Manager, the Trust is comprised of a nine-member board that includes experts in housing policy, finance, development, design, and advocacy. The Trust serves as both a policy advisory board and a loan committee, meeting on a monthly basis throughout the year to review proposals for new housing preservation and development efforts and other housing programs, and to discuss affordable housing policy. The Trust has a long-standing commitment to creating high-quality housing that is well-integrated into the greater community and that will remain affordable for future generations. Some of the criteria the Trust uses when reviewing proposals for new programs, policies, and housing developments include:

- Creation and preservation of long-term affordability;
- Emphasis on the creation of family-sized housing (units with two or more bedrooms);
- Leveraging of Trust funds by other public and private financing sources;
- High-quality sustainable design to benefit housing residents and the surrounding neighborhood and community;
- Use of energy-efficient materials, and environmentally-friendly construction techniques;

Funding from the Affordable Housing Trust has assisted more than 4,000 units in the City. Through its funding of affordable housing acquisition and development programs, affordable housing preservation programs, and first-time homebuyer assistance programs, the Trust has helped thousands of families and individuals afford to remain in the Cambridge community.

Highlights of current affordable housing developments being developed with funding from the Cambridge Affordable Housing Trust:

- $3.7 million to create 24 new affordable rental units in a North Cambridge mixed-use transit-oriented development; construction will be completed in early 2024.
- $10.2 million committed to create 62 new affordable units to house individuals moving beyond homelessness where construction is underway.
- $18 million committed to create 106 new affordable rental units adjacent to Danehy Park in Neighborhood 10 where construction is underway.
- $43.6 million committed to replace 175 obsolete public housing units with 278 new affordable rental units in North Cambridge where site preparation is underway.
- $10.8 million committed to convert former church properties to 46 affordable rental units in East Cambridge.
- $10.4 million committed to acquire a property outside of Harvard Square to create new affordable housing in the Baldwin neighborhood, where few affordable housing opportunities now exist; funding is being assembled to build 29 affordable units.
- Commitment of City land in The Port; an affordable housing provider has been selected to develop new affordable condominium units on a long-vacant parcel.
- Additional efforts underway include acquisition of other new sites, reviewing requests from affordable housing providers and continuing to work with affordable housing developers to identify new opportunities to finance the creation of affordable units through acquisition of new sites.

Affordable Housing Overlay Zoning Advances New Development

Access to funding is a critical component of building new affordable housing, and housing providers must also be able to compete with market developers to obtain sites and predictably advance new developments through the development process where delays add significantly to cost and the need for public subsidy. In 2020, the City first adopted a landmark Affordable Housing Overlay (AHO) zoning to allow affordable housing builders to build more densely than market-rate builders to help them compete for new development sites. The AHO also allows for a community and design review process, which helps affordable housing providers advance new proposals more efficiently and cost effectively. The AHO has become a national model followed by other cities in the region and in other parts of the country.

In October 2023, the City Council amended the AHO to enhance its effectiveness in creating new affordable housing. The amendments allow for taller heights for affordable housing developments in higher-density zoning districts, major squares, and mixed-use corridors, and reduce required setbacks citywide. These changes will help non-profit developers better compete with market-rate developers for available sites, provide for a full range of housing choices throughout the City for households of all incomes, and help to meet the City's goal of preserving diversity.

With more than 725 affordable units proposed under the AHO, including 446 now under construction, the AHO has resulted in an unprecedented pipeline of new affordable housing that will serve the community for years to come. An additional three AHO developments are expected to be proposed in 2024 with more to follow as the AHO has been effective in giving affordable housing providers the confidence to aggressively pursue new development opportunities to build new affordable housing to advance the City's housing goals.

Alewife Re-Zoning Spurs Housing and Economic Development

The City has conducted focused planning for the Alewife area, which is expected to undergo major commercial redevelopment and provide an opportunity to advance the City's goals of housing production, economic vitality, and environmental resilience.

Prompted by the rapid acquisition of 35 acres of land by Denver-based developer Healthpeak, the City Council imposed a construction moratorium for new commercial development until new zoning was adopted. The Council asked City staff to convene an Alewife Zoning Working Group to build off the recommendations from the 2019 Alewife District Plan and provide zoning rules that would guide the creation of a vibrant new neighborhood.

Over 18 months, city staff led an inclusive working group process that brought together the diverse interests of residents, the business community, institutions, property owners, and developers. The process resulted in a shared vision for a mixed-use district that balances economic growth with housing development and delivers significant infrastructure improvements. The final zoning, which was adopted 9-0 by the Council, creates the framework for a multimodal, resilient, and sustainable neighborhood with strong community amenities. The adopted zoning increases the number of new homes that can be built and requires housing to be built along with new commercial buildings. It also incentivizes the construction of a bike/pedestrian bridge over the railroad tracks, creates greater open space, and requires funding for infrastructure improvements. Estimated development projections by 2040 would result in approximately 3,500 new housing units, including 700 affordable units.

Other notable zoning-related changes and developments:

Elimination of Minimum Parking Requirements

As of October 2022, the City of Cambridge removed off-street parking requirements from the city's zoning code in an effort to reduce the cost and complexity of new residential development and to advance the City's sustainability goals by reducing vehicle trips in the city. Cambridge became the first Massachusetts city to fully eliminate parking minimums. Previously, the Zoning Ordinance had required new housing developments to have one off-street parking space per unit in most of the city.

Multifamily Housing Citywide Consideration

In the last term, the City Council has discussed how zoning could be changed to allow multifamily in districts that now allow only single-family, two-family, or townhouse development, which cover approximately a quarter of the city. The Council's interest was centered on encouraging new housing construction and creating more equitable zoning rules across the City. Consideration of this approach will continue in 2024.

Massachusetts Avenue Planning Study

The City is undertaking a study process to consider zoning changes along this major mixed-use corridor. The Mass Ave Planning Study (MAPS), spearheaded by the Community Development Department (CDD), is creating a vision plan for what Massachusetts Avenue will look like in 2040 between Alewife Brook Parkway and Cambridge Common. The team will work with the community to develop a shared vision to shape future development types and scales, and lead an engagement process to listen to all the voices that live work or play along this section of Mass Ave.

Central Square Zoning

CDD is now working on a process to develop zoning changes for Central Square, which would allow for and encourage the continued growth, redevelopment, and evolution of the district. In alignment with the prior planning processes undertaken by CDD, the focus of the updated zoning will be towards increasing housing, creating public spaces to build community, creating additional public open spaces, supporting our diverse retail, cultural, and non-profit community, and providing opportunities for centralized parking. The goal is to have new zoning ready for adoption by the City Council by the end of 2024 following community engagement, public hearings and discussion. This work is expected to rely on the community's vision and goals articulated in multiple studies completed in the past decade, including the C2 Planning Study (2013), the Central Square Commercial District Assessment Survey (2018), and the Central Square City Lots Study (2024). CDD has also completed a study of 10 City-owned properties in the Central Square area to see how these properties could be developed to advance several City goals and initiatives.

Overview of Rental and Homeownership Programs Offered Through the City

Inclusionary Housing Rental Program Makes Cambridge More Accessible

Since its adoption in 1998, the Inclusionary Housing provisions of the Zoning Ordinance has provided new affordable homes for low-, moderate-, and middle-income households in Cambridge. This program is a key component of the City's ongoing effort to provide residents with access to affordable homes. The Inclusionary Housing provisions engage the private sector to assist in creating new affordable homes. To-date, 1,497 inclusionary housing units have been completed or are now being built. These include both rental and homeownership units. Homeownership units are administered by the Housing Division of CDD along with City-funded affordable homes. Access to affordable rental units in privately-owned buildings is also offered through the Housing Division's Inclusionary Housing Rental Program.

"Living in inclusionary housing has allowed me to live in the city that I grew up in," said one resident. "This in turn has allowed me to raise my children in a place that I hold dear to my heart. If it weren't for this program, I would have never been able to afford to stay in my city."

In 2023, over 200 households moved into rental units through the program, which now offers access to more than 1,100 affordable apartments throughout the City. Over half of new households moved to affordable apartments from market-rate properties. Nearly a quarter of those tenants had an emergency need prior to moving, such as being unhoused, paying over 50% of their gross income for rent, or facing a no-fault eviction. Moving into inclusionary housing helped them remain stably housed in the city.

Eligible applicants for the program are identified through the Rental Applicant Pool. The Community Development Department manages this pool, determines eligibility, and refers qualified applicants to property owners or managers with available units. To enter the pool, candidates complete a preliminary application. Preference is given to Cambridge residents, households with children, and households with an emergency housing need.

HomeBridge Eases Financial Burden for First-Time Homebuyers

The City remains committed to expanding affordable housing opportunities through programs like HomeBridge, which provides funding to first-time homebuyers in Cambridge. With this support, participants search for homes on the market and make offers with a pre-approval for funding assistance from the City.

According to one resident, "I am extremely grateful for the opportunity the HomeBridge program has afforded me. I was able to buy a home in the community and neighborhood I love that I would have otherwise been priced out."

Through the HomeBridge program, eligible buyers enter into an affordable housing restriction in exchange for financial assistance with a portion of the home's price. Last year, the Affordable Housing Trust approved changes to the program that increase the percentage of the price that can be paid with HomeBridge funds.

HomeBridge now provides up to 65% of the purchase price for a three-bedroom unit, 60% for a two-bedroom unit, and 50% for a one-bedroom unit. Eligible applicants must earn at least 60% and no more than 120% of Area Median Income, adjusted for household size.

Homeownership Resale Pool

When an affordable homeownership unit is being resold through the City, a new buyer is selected from the Homeownership Resale Pool administered by the Housing Division. The resale pool is open to households earning between 50% and 100% AMI adjusted for household size, and offers access to more than 550 affordable homes when current owners decide to sell.

Before

After

Home Improvement Program

The City help support income-eligible homeowners in Cambridge make necessary home repairs through the Home Improvement Program (HIP). HIP offers low-interest loans to owners' to cover the home repair costs. In addition, owners receive technical assistance to ensure it is completed to the highest standards. The program is administered by two non-profit organizations in close collaboration with the Housing Division.

Lottery Process Makes New Affordable Homeownership Units Available to Residents

In 2023, four new affordable homes in North Cambridge were offered to first-time homebuyers through a lottery process conducted by CDD's Housing Division. Buyers are now living in their new homes. In 2024, another three new affordable homes in Wellington-Harrington are also now being made available to new homebuyers by lottery.

Housed IN Cambridge

Housed IN Cambridge is a citywide campaign designed to educate and inform residents about housing opportunities and housing related resources and services. The Housed IN Cambridge team held four evening drop-in hours at the Cambridge Public Library locations in 2023. Staff provided up to 20 minutes of personalized, one-on-one assistance to over 85 attendees.

- First-Time Homebuyer Education. The Housing Division offers a free, CHAPA-certified homebuyer workshop 10 months a year, featuring presentations on the homebuying process by City staff and local real estate professionals. In 2023, over 375 individuals completed the City's first-time homebuyer workshop.

Work Underway Across the City for New Affordable Housing

There are a series of affordable housing developments underway across the City. Highlights include:

Rindge Commons North

Just A Start (JAS) will be constructing two new buildings at 430-432 Rindge Avenue in North Cambridge, near Alewife Brook Parkway. This two-phased project, called Rindge Commons, will create 101 affordable apartments. All units will be affordable to households earning under 80% AMI, with some being more deeply affordable.

The first phase, Rindge Commons North, is nearing completion and will include 24 affordable one- and two-bedroom rental units, as well as several floors of non-residential space where JAS will be consolidating its training and education programs into a centralized location.

The City will also be leasing space to create three pre-school classrooms for children between ages three and five years old, providing much needed affordable early education for Cambridge's working families.

The City has invested $3 million to support the first residential phase of construction of this project. Planning for the second phase with 77 affordable units is now underway.

116 Norfolk Street

An AHO project, 116 Norfolk Street is sponsored by the Cambridge Housing Authority (CHA). Located in The Port neighborhood, the existing 38-unit SRO property is being renovated and expanded into 62 units of permanent supportive housing for residents at risk of or moving beyond homelessness. CHA will be partnering with Eliot Community Housing Services to provide residents with a robust set of supportive services. All units will be very affordable for individuals below 30% AMI. The renovation will meet Enterprise Green Communities standards and will have features such as added insulation and rooftop solar arrays. Construction began in January 2023 and is being supported by more than $10 million in City funding.

52 New Street

52 New Street, an affordable housing project sponsored by Just A Start, is located in North Cambridge, immediately adjacent to Daney Park and close to the Fresh Pond reservoir. The site is being developed into 106 affordable housing units with approximately 3,000 square feet of new retail space.

The majority of the units will be affordable to families at or below 60% AMI and many of them will also be two bedrooms or larger. This building is being designed to comply with Passive House standards and will include features to ensure maximum energy efficiency, such as a robust thermal envelope and eco-friendly materials.

This project is the first to be approved under the provisions of the Affordable Housing Overlay (AHO). Construction began on the property in January 2024 supported by more than $18 million in City funds.

Jefferson Park

After many years of planning, CHA is underway to replace 175 obsolete public housing units at their Jefferson Park Federal Public Housing development. Conditions at the site had deteriorated so significantly that 57 units were taken offline several years ago. The 1950's era public housing buildings have been demolished and work is underway to build 278 new affordable rental housing units in a reimagined site layout, which will better integrate the housing into the surrounding neighborhood.

The City has committed more than $43 million in funding to support the revitalization of this important housing resource.

4 Mellen Street/1627 Massachusetts Avenue

4 Mellen Street is one of the newest projects to be proposed under the AHO. The property is located in the Baldwin neighborhood, between Harvard Square and Porter Square. It was previously owned by Lesley University. The parcel consists of a 6,500 square foot historically significant mansion, known as the Charles Saunders House, with a sizeable parking lot in the rear. Homeowners Rehab, Inc. (HRI) renovated the existing housing and added a new building in the rear, creating 29 new affordable units for people at 80% AMI or lower as well as amenity space for residents. The new rear addition will meet Passive House standards. The City has committed more than $10 million in funding to this development and HRI is now assembling final funding to begin construction.

Other New Affordable Housing:

35 Harvey Street: HRI is underway with rehab work to convert this former single-room occupancy (SRO) with shared facilities into 12 enhanced affordable apartment units for individuals moving beyond homelessness. This is expected to be completed later this year.

49 Sixth Street: Preservation of Affordable Housing (POAH) will build 46 new affordable housing units at the former Sacred Heart rectory, school, and convent in East Cambridge. It will be built through the AHO.

87-101 Blanchard Road: B'nai B'rith Housing, a non-profit housing developer, has proposed 110 new affordable senior housing units in Cambridge Highlands.

Walden Square II: WinnDevelopment, the owner of Walden Square Apartments, a 240-unit affordable housing development has proposed a plan to construct 95 new affordable rental units on their property.

37 Brookline Street: Just A Start recently acquired 37 Brookline Street, a property located in the Cambridgeport neighborhood. JAS plans to begin a community process in 2024 to create affordable housing on the site.

35 Cherry Street: JAS has been selected to build new affordable homeownership units here. Plans will be advanced in 2024.

30 Wendell Street: HRI recently purchased the property at 30 Wendell Street from Lesley University, located in the Baldwin neighborhood, and has begun its community process to propose new affordable housing here in 2024.

Multi-Service Center and Office of Housing Liaison Go Above and Beyond to Help Residents Experiencing Housing Challenges

The City of Cambridge is committed to providing Housing Support Services for all residents.

Many departments in Cambridge work together to offer a comprehensive and coordinated approach to respond to the varied housing needs and issues of our residents and our city.

The Office of the Housing Liaison (OHL) and the Multi-Service Center (MSC) play key roles in addressing housing rights, eviction prevention, and homelessness to ensure that if you are housed in Cambridge, you have access to:

- information about tenant and landlord rights, and responsibilities
- assistance in navigating the complex world of affordable housing opportunities
- support in obtaining resources and services

The Multi-Service Center is part of the Department of Human Service Programs. It has been the go-to resource for eviction prevention and homeless services in Cambridge for almost 40 years. Staff administer financial rental assistance programs, refer and connect residents to support resources such as legal services, financial literacy programs, food pantries and shelters and offer housing search workshops and individualized assistance. The MSC is a direct service arm of the Continuum of Care (CoC), which offers a pathway to permanent supportive housing. Finally, MSC is the point of contact for many of the City's housing and homeless service provider partnerships.

The Office of the Housing Liaison was established in 2019. As a division of the City Manager's Office, it serves as a dedicated housing resource that responds to individual, programmatic and systemic housing needs and gaps. Staff educate tenants, homeowners, and landlords on housing rights and responsibilities; offer intensive field-based support services to stabilize housing; and help community members navigate complex housing situations such as building sales. The OHL also acts as a convener to coordinate citywide responses to support populations who are particularly vulnerable to housing instability or access. Both OHL and MSC work together to respond to housing crises such as fires or other emergencies in the City.

The City's commitment to housing is reflected in the work of OHL and MSC, as well as many city partners that are essential to ensuring that housing is affordable, accessible and safe.

Have a Question or Concern about Housing in Cambridge?

Come to visit us! Both MSC and OHL are located at 362 Green Street on the first floor.

Daily walk-in hours are available to residents who are facing housing or other challenges.
